

FIRST YEAR EXPERIENCE

DUTIES OF RETENTION OFFICERS

GOAL:

Develop and implement an early alert system to provide meaningful intervention before it is too late.

To provide timely feedback to students about their academic progress,

To identify students who show signs of disengagement and to provide support and/or refer them to the relevant support services.

DUTIES:

At-risk students and subjects

- Determine at-risk students by monitoring student information and data.
- Communicate at-risk student information to faculty and staff.
- Advise at-risk students who have been identified of their status.
- Where necessary, refer to the relevant support services.
- Develop with staff and faculty strategies to retain at-risk students.
- Work with lecturers and staff to assist at-risk students.
- Serve as a liaison between lecturers, staff and at-risk students.
- Continue to monitor at-risk students by tracking their progress and reporting success rates of students.
- Collect and analyze information on what causes students to perform poorly.
- Provide support for faculty who teach at-risk subjects, by acting as liaison between faculty and FYE office at Fundani.

Record-keeping and reporting

- Create and maintain a retention record system.
- Complete all required reports in a timely fashion.

Pipeline students

- Collect and analyze information on what causes students to leave.
- Contact students in danger of withdrawing from CPUT and develop re-entry campaigns.
- Working with the students on academic warning to get them back in good standing.

Retention Activities

- Participate in all campus FYE initiatives and other student retention programs.
- Assist with first-year orientation presentations and sessions for incoming students.
- Collaborate with other student support services areas, faculty, and staff for the purpose of the promotion of student success and retention.

Planning

- Assist with short and long range planning, implementation, and evaluation of student retention initiatives.

Research

- Identify emerging programs on retention issues and keep abreast of national trends in retention.